1. Transferable Hours

Transferable hours are defined as the hours and grades added to a student's academic record, which may or may not satisfy degree requirements, but can be used to satisfy transferable hour requirements for transfer admission. However, transfer evaluation designations such as NOTR (non-transferable) and UNKN (no previous articulation and will need to be determined) are also displayed on the transfer evaluation form. Those grades are not factored in a student's transfer GPA.

Approved tests consist of the Illinois Test of Academic Proficiency \(TAP\), ACT, or SAT with approved scores. Previously passed Illinois Test of Basic Skills (096, 300, or 400) may be used to meet this requirement.
